

Managed care penetration and other factors affecting computerized physician order entry in the ambulatory setting.

July 25, 2011

Menachemi N, Ford E, Chukmaitov A, et al. Managed care penetration and other factors affecting computerized physician order entry in the ambulatory setting. Am J Manag Care. 2006;12(12):738-744.

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/managed-care-penetration-and-other-factors-affecting-computerized-physician-order-entry>

The authors surveyed primary care physicians on their use of computerized physician order entry (CPOE) and found that managed care involvement, physician age, practice size, and multidisciplinary affiliations correlated with CPOE use.