

Medication discrepancies in integrated electronic health records.

January 30, 2013

Linsky A, Simon SR. Medication discrepancies in integrated electronic health records. BMJ Qual Saf. 2013;22(2):103-9. doi:10.1136/bmjqs-2012-001301.

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/medication-discrepancies-integrated-electronic-health-records>

Discrepancies between patients' recorded medication lists and the medications they were actually taking were very common in an ambulatory clinic with a fully integrated electronic health record. The study provides another example that electronic medical records alone are not a foolproof mechanism for preventing errors.