

Potentially dangerous confusion between Bloxiverz (neostigmine) injection and Vazculep (phenylephrine) injection.

April 1, 2015

National Alert Network. Horsham, PA: Institute for Safe Medication Practices; Bethesda, MD: American Society of Health-System Pharmacists. March 23, 2015

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/potentially-dangerous-confusion-between-bloxiverz-neostigmine-injection-and-vazculep>

Misunderstanding prescription drug labels is a recognized source of errors in ambulatory care. This announcement raises awareness of new packaging for existing medications that may cause confusion due to similarities in color and layout. Recommendations are outlined to prevent mistakes associated with use of these medications.