

Improving the Working Environment for Safe Surgical Care.

August 23, 2017

Short-Life Working Group on Hospital Reports. Edinburgh, Scotland: Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh; July 31, 2017.

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/improving-working-environment-safe-surgical-care>

---

Surgical training is demanding and can result in burnout. This publication explores deficiencies in surgical training that can contribute to a stressful work environment and diminish the safety of care delivery. The report recommends changes to improve work climate and reduce the potential for error, including establishing a strong team culture and promoting human factors training.