

ASH Clinical Practice Guidelines on Venous Thromboembolism.

January 9, 2019

Washington DC; American Society of Hematology.

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/ash-clinical-practice-guidelines-venous-thromboembolism>

The American Society of Hematology produced a series of guidelines on prophylaxis for venous thromboembolism, which can be a patient safety problem among hospitalized patients. Key recommendations include low-molecular-weight heparin as the preferred agent when medication prophylaxis is indicated and screening of all hospitalized patients for venous thromboembolism risk and bleeding.