

Strategy on Reducing Regulatory and Administrative Burden Relating to the Use of Health IT and EHRs.

February 20, 2019

Washington, DC: Office of the National Coordinator for Health Information Technology; November 28, 2018.

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/strategy-reducing-regulatory-and-administrative-burden-relating-use-health-it-and-ehrs>

Clinician burnout is a persistent threat to patient safety, and electronic health records have been identified as a high-profile contributor to the problem. This call for public comments on a draft report seeks insights on specific goals and recommended strategies to address the issue. The approaches outlined focus on reducing the time burden associated with frontline electronic health record use. The option for submitting comments is closed.