

A safety evaluation of the impact of maternity-orientated human factors training on safety culture in a tertiary maternity unit.

June 19, 2019

Ansari SP, Rayfield ME, Wallis VA, et al. A Safety Evaluation of the Impact of Maternity-Orientated Human Factors Training on Safety Culture in a Tertiary Maternity Unit. J Patient Saf. 2020;16(4):e359-e366.

doi:10.1097/PTS.0000000000000609.

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/safety-evaluation-impact-maternity-orientated-human-factors-training-safety-culture-tertiary>

---

This study describes a multidisciplinary human factors training intervention for labor and delivery care that included communication training and simulation work. Researchers found that safety culture improved compared to preintervention scores.