

Teaching medical students to recognise and report errors.

July 10, 2019

Mohsin SU, Ibrahim Y, Levine D. Teaching medical students to recognise and report errors. BMJ Open Qual. 2019;8(2):e000558. doi:10.1136/bmjopen-2018-000558.

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/teaching-medical-students-recognise-and-report-errors>

This commentary describes a project to assist medical students in understanding and reporting errors they encounter. The program included an introductory workshop, facilitated discussion about errors and the importance of reporting, and completion of a simulated error report. Results indicated that education could influence student ability and willingness to recognize and report errors during their clinical clerkship. A WebM&M commentary discussed an incident involving a medical student who failed to report an error.