

Think health care workers are tested often for the Coronavirus? Think again.

December 16, 2020

Wamsley L. National Public Radio and WBUR. December 7, 2020.

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/think-health-care-workers-are-tested-often-coronavirus-think-again>

Testing for COVID-19 is a core public safety strategy for pandemic management. This news story discusses how a lack of health care workers' virus status knowledge could contribute to spread. Barriers inherent to a universal testing strategy include operational challenges, patient testing volume, and availability of health care workers to provide care during the pandemic should clinicians test positive.