

Improving medication appropriateness in nursing homes via structured interprofessional medication-review supported by health information technology: a non-randomized controlled study.

February 24, 2021

Dellinger JK, Pitzer S, Schaffler-Schaden D, et al. Improving medication appropriateness in nursing homes via structured interprofessional medication-review supported by health information technology: a non-randomized controlled study. BMC Geriatr. 2020;20(1):506. doi:10.1186/s12877-020-01895-z.

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/improving-medication-appropriateness-nursing-homes-structured-interprofessional-medication>

Polypharmacy in older adults is common and may increase risk of medication-related adverse events. This study found that an intervention combining educational training, tailored health information technology, and a therapy check process improved medication appropriateness in nursing home residents.