

Recognizing our biases, understanding the evidence, and responding equitably: application of the socioecological model to reduce racial disparities in the NICU.

March 8, 2023

McCarty DB. Recognizing our biases, understanding the evidence, and responding equitably: application of the socioecological model to reduce racial disparities in the NICU. Adv Neonatal Care. 2023;23(1):31-39. doi:10.1097/anc.0000000000000987.

<https://psnet.ahrq.gov/issue/recognizing-our-biases-understanding-evidence-and-responding-equitably-application>

---

Racism is increasingly seen as a major contributor to poor maternal care and adverse outcomes. This article summarizes racial health disparities impacting patients in the neonatal intensive care unit (NICU) and interventions to reduce racial bias in the NICU.